Kendall's Spavin Cure.

The Most Successful Remedy ever discovered, as it is certain its effects and does not blister. READ PROOF BELOW.

From Rev. P. N. GRANGER,

Presiding Elder of the St. Albans District,
ST. ALBANS, VT., Jan., 20, 1880.

DR. B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents:—In reply to your letter I will say that my experience with 'Kendall's Spavin Cure' has been very satisfactory indeed. Three or four years ago I procured a bottle of your agent, and with it, cured a horse of lameness caused by a spavin. Last season my horse became very lame and I turned him out for a few weeks when he became better, but when I put him on the road he grew worse, when I discovered that a ring-bone was forming, I procured a bottle of Kendall's Spavin Cure and with less than a bottle cured him so that he is not lame, neither can the bunch be found. Respectfully yours,
P. N. GRANGER.

Perseverance Will Tell.

STROUGHTON, MASS., March 16, 1880.

B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents:—In justice to you and myself, I think I ought to let you know that I have removed two bone spavins with 'Kendall's Spavin Cure,' one very large one, don't know how long the spavin had been there. I have owned the horse eight months. It took me four months to take the large one off and two for the small one. I have used ten bottles. The horse is entirely well, not at all stiff, and no bunch to be seen or felt. This is a wonderful medicine. It is a new thing here, but if it does for all what it has done for me it will be very great.
Respectfully yours,
CHAS. E. PARKER.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE is sure in its effects, mild in its action as it does not blister, yet it is penetrating and powerful to reach a every deep seated pain or to remove any bony growth or other enlargement, such as spavins, splints, curbs, callous, sprains, swellings, any lameness and all enlargements of the joints or limbs, or rheumatism in man and for any purpose for which a liniment is used for man or beast. It is now known to be the best liniment for man ever used, acting mild and yet certain in its effects.

Send address for illustrated Circular which we think gives positive proof of its virtues. No remedy has ever met with such unqualified success to our knowledge, for beast as well as man.

Price $1. per bottle, or six bottles for $5. ALL DRUGGISTS have it or can get it for you or it will be sent to any address on receipt of price by the proprietors. DR. B. J. KENDALL & CO., Enosburgh Falls, Vermont.

AN ITALIAN EVANGELINE.

The Remarkable Romance that a Mohawk Reporter Relates.

Amsterdam Recorder.

A gang of Italian laborers have for months past been employed on the West Shore Railroad a few miles below Amsterdam. They are very quiet industrious, and well behaved, and seem to be above the average of Italian laborers. Among them was one whose form was slender and symmetrical, complexion fair with a slight olive tint, eyes dark and lustrous, and hair long, dark, and wavy. An Evening Recorder reporter who visited the spot a couple of days ago gleaned from persons well acquainted with facts the following romantic story:

The fair personage was a woman. Her name was Angella Lourino. He lover, Franko Patricio, came to America, like many of his countrymen, to better his fortune. The fair Angella pined in his absence, and finally determined to join him in the far-off America. To carry out her plan she disguised herself in men's attire, and having no money with which to pay passage, she stowed herself away upon an ocean steamer bound for the United States. After the steamer sailed she was discovered and willingly did a sailor's hard duty to work her passage across the broad Atlantic.

At length she arrived in New York city, only to learn, after patient investigation, that her lover had joined the army of Italian laborers upon the West Shore Railroad. Nothing daunted, she, too, became a railroad worker, and labored for her daily bread at various points along the West Shore Railroad, ever keeping the object of her life—to find her long-lost lover—in view.

During her wanderings she came near meeting him. Once she caught sight of his form on the deck of the canal boat which passed near the spot where she was at work, but the overseer kept her at her task, and the boat went onward. At another time she caught a glimpse of him as he was rapidly whirled by the Amsterdam railroad station on an express train. In the course of her wanderings and changes she was finally located with a gang of Italian laborers a few miles below this village. Her constitution, naturally delicate was unable to endure the exposure and hard work, and she fell a victim to typhoid fever. The fatal disease made rapid work, and the poor girl, who, until her sickness, had strictly kept to herself the secret of her sex, rapidly succumbed to its ravages. As the end approached, Angella awoke to consciousness from her feverish delirium and saw her lover. He had been detailed to work at this spot and arrived only in time to see her die. She fixed her eyes on the face of her lover with a look of love, and faintly murmured, in the language of her native land: "At last we meet, only to part forever. Farewell, my dearest." With these words she died.

The remains of Angella were laid upon a platform, covered with a cloth, and stones placed beneath her head. For four days and nights the body was kept in this position, while the lover kept a ceaseless vigil beside it. At the expiration of this time the body was wrapped in a winding sheet and buried in the "dump" of the road bed the remains being covered with earth from the dumping carts.

The smallest baby was born in Chandalaria, Nevada, a few weeks ago. The father and mother are strong and healthy, weighing 190 and 160 pounds. The child is male, perfectly formed. When it first saw light it weighed eight ounces. Its face is about the size of a horse chestnut. The mother's wedding ring was pulled over its foot up to the knee. Three such babies could play hide and seek in a cigar box. It is in good health.

Sullivan, the pugilist, failed to put in an appearance at the meeting in New York Monday night, at which his match with Tom Allen was to have been arranged.

CELESTINE'S CURIOUS REVENGE.

A Sort of Creole Cross Between Hamlet's Uncle and Xantippe.

New Orleans Picayune.

Romance, like history, repeats itself; and the performance given by the melancholy Dane for the benefit of his mother and uncle found a new rendering last Sunday at a house on Frenchman, between Morales and Goodchildren streets. Jordan Joseph, an elderly quadroon, has been married twenty years to Celestine Ricard. For some reason they quareled at the breakfast table on Saturday. About 10 o'clock in the forenoon Joseph walked into the kitchen and observed a kettle of water on the stove, boiling hot. Although it was an unusual hour, the dishes being all washed and put away, he did not ask what she was about, but, feeling sleepy, laid himself down on the gallery for a siesta. He placed his hat over his face to protect it from the flies and his eyes from the light, and was soon snoring quite comfortably, his left ear uppermost.

Celestine was waiting for this opportunity, and as soon as she was satisfied that Joseph was sound asleep she stepped lightly into the kitchen and took the kettle of boiling water off the stove. On tiptoe she crept back to the gallery on which her husband was asleep, and holding the spout in such a position that the hot water would run into his ear, she tipped the kettle. Her hands were unsteady, and a few drops fell out of the spout and on Joseph's face. With a yell of anguish he awoke, and then Celestine elevated the kettle of scalding water falling on the neck and back of Joseph's head, scalding him terribly. He gained his feet and seized the woman, but she kept him from injuring her by pouring the water on his left leg and feet. The agony was more than Joseph could bear, and he released her and she escaped. Since then the couple have been dodging each other in various parts of the city.

Some Small Things.

The mule has the reputation of having the smallest and daintiest foot for its size of all hoofed animals.

Diamond is the smallest movable type in the world it often gets under the finger nails of compositors.

Watches made as early as 1700 were so delicately constructed by hand, and so small, as to easily fit on the top of a lead pencil.

Bismarck is easily offended. A Berlin butcher named one of his products "The Bismarck Sausage," and for so small a thing was arrested.

It is worthy of remark that a mosquito has concealed in his bill six complete surgical instruments, each so minute as to be indiscernible to the naked eye.

General Longer, the editor of a newspaper called the Key West Democrat, 20 years old, 40 inches high, and weighs 35 pounds. The General was born in San Domingo and raised in Florida.

The sting of a honey bee, when compared with the point of a fine needle under a powerful magnifying glass, is scarcely discernible. The point of the needle seemed to be about an inch in breadth.

Prof. Edward C. Pickering, of Harvard College, says that he is undertaking to measure the light of the satellite of Mars, a hole about the twenty-five hundredth part of an inch in diameter was required.

A very curious little toy is the microscope containing the Lord's prayer. The whole prayer is on a piece of glass not larger than the head of a pin, yet it is magnified to such an extent that it can be read easily by looking through the microscope.

The smallest hogs in the world are quartered in the Zoological Gardens in London. They came from Australia, and are known as the "pigmy hogs." They are about the size of a wild hare.

THURLOW WEED is reported to be dying.

THE Lexington Insane Asylum is full and patients are now being turned away.

THE case of Gillespie against Bradford, from Bracken county, has been reversed by the Court of Appeals.

JUDGE ALFORD, of the Lexington City Court has rendered a decision sustaining the Auditor's agent's motion for a rule against the city requiring it to refund all moneys collected for twelve years past, from fines in commonwealth cases. The decision is a sweeping one, and compels the treasurer to refund about $41,000. As Lexington is already in debt over $100,000, this new onslaught on her money bags will likely cause the sale of some of her real estate, or an increase in taxes.

THE particulars of the Paris tragedy are thus given in a special to the Courier-Journal:

Between 12 and 1 o'clock a party of young men, among whom was Joe Redmon, went to the Bourbon House, and some words were exchanged between Joe Redmon and Wm. Seerest. Redmon said: "I don't give a d—n for Bill Seerest, Henry Turney or all of them. They have had it against me because I would not tell a d—n lie and save Henry Turney a fine of $60." He meant the indictment against Turney, in which Redmon testified, at the last term of the circuit court, that Turney had sold him liquor, he at the time being a minor. Seerest said: "I am a friend of yours, Joe, and have nothing against you. You are drunk; go home and come back Monday morning, and I'll talk to you." Redmon said: "You are a d—n cold, cowardly s—n of a b—n." Seerest told George Redmon to take Joe out. Joe returned, put his head in the door and said, pistol in hand, "Now, God d—n you, I'm on even terms with you. Pull your pistol now." Seerest pulled a pistol from his hip pocket and went to the door, meeting him on the steps. Both presented pistols, the muzzles of which were not more than eight inches apart. The shot was fired and Redmon got down from the steps, saying "G—d d—n you, you shot me, but come on." Seerest said, "I'm shot," walked back in the office to a chair, took off his coat and said, "Boys, I'm a dead man." He was then taken to the room where it was seen that his death was only a question of a short time.

NEWS BREVITIES.

Fears are entertained that Captain W. C. Hite, both of whose legs were broken by the falling of an elevator at Louisville, a few days since, will be compelled to have both legs amputated below the knees.

Johann Strauss, the composer, is reported to have made his will, whereby he bequeathes the bulk of his property for the foundation of a college of music. He has no children. His estate is said to be worth 250,000 guineas (about $100,000).

A correspondent of the Buffalo Express says that Governor-elect Cleveland reckons among his forefathers Henry Sewell, Esq., of Coventry in Warwickshire, England, who flourished in Queen Elizabeth's day, and was elected Mayor of that city.

A Kentucky stage coach, running from Columbia to Campbellsville, and containing three passengers, was robbed in daylight by a single masked robber, who relieved the passengers of their personal effects, rifled the mail bags, and disappeared in the woods.

A cordon of police guarded the New York Academy of Music, Monday night, against any attempt which might be made to injure Adelina Patti, who has been threatened with harm by letter, but who refuses to believe anybody would injure her—and no one did.

Melville, it is said, feels very keenly the humiliation of public discussion of his private affairs. He does not care to talk for publication. But it seems to be understood that he still believes his wife insane, and that, while he will provide for her, he will not live with her any more.

Colonel De Abna, who distinguished himself in Washington City, one New Year's Day by calling at the White House with the intention of bowing President Hayes, and was afterward made collector at Sitka, Alaska, has been appointed special timber agent by secretary Teller.

SHORT NOTES.

Of Short Matters Told in a Short Way.

The total salmon pack from British Columbia canneries may be estimated at 54,000 cases, while the canneries will carry over some 20,000 cases.

A foreigner on a German line, whose hat had been blown off, pulled the string and stopped the train. On reaching Konigsburg he was sent to jail in default of $10.

A St. Louisian notes that when a poor drunkard dies the attendant physician registers the death as from "drunkenness" or "alcoholism." In the case of a man better off it goes down to "mania a potu," but in the case of the bibulous rich as "general debility," "nervous prostration," "methysia."

A Parisian physician declares the following a certain cure for small-pox or scarlet fever: Sulphate of zinc, 1 grain; foxglove (digitalis), 1 grain; half a teaspoonful of sugar. Mix with two tablespoonfuls of water. Take a spoonful every hour. He declares the remedy unfailing. Its very simplicity has caused it to be overlooked.

The best indication of what is being done for the colored people in the South is in the fact that in the sixteen Southern States the white school population is 3,899,961, and the colored 1,803,257. There are 16,666 colored public schools, forty-five normal schools, thirty-six colored institutions of secondary instruction, fifteen colored universities and colleges, twenty-two colored schools of theology, three colored law schools, two colored medical schools and two colored deaf and dumb and blind institutions. We gather these facts from the Columbus (Ga.) Inquirer.

The Rev. James McEarl, a Presbyterian pastor in Montreal, tells us of an extraordinary faith cure through prayer, and declares that there is no room for doubt about it. Margaret Scott had long been bedridden by spinal disease. So sensitive was she that she had to be kept in a darkened room, as a very moderate light caused intense pain in her head. She was extremely pious, and invited several women to join in prayer at her bedside, in the hope that they might bring about a miracle. They prayed for an hour, and then Margaret leaped out of the bed. She has been well ever since.

In farming districts of Denmark, where smoking is almost universal, and pipes with huge china bowls are as common as mile stones are scarce in country cross roads, distance is more frequently measured by "pipes" than miles. The easy going, set ways of the people make this expedient practicable. Great is the amazement of the traveler, however, at being told, in answer to the inquiry about the distance to the next town, that it is so many "pipes of tobacco." Experience will teach him that at the steady gait and pull of the native about two English miles, or half a Danish mile make a "pipe."

At 9.45 o'clock Friday evening, at Marblehead, Massachusetts, Mrs. Martha Chapman started for the house of Mrs. Nancy Coffin, on Front street, and wheeled Mrs. Hannah High in a wheelbarrow up State street, around the town hall and returned. The wheelbarrow was dressed with flags and had a Chinese lantern on each side. Mrs. Chapman wore on her head a huge bonnet made of pasteboard, with a large rooster on either side. A banner, on which was "13,000 clean sweep," was carried in front of the wheelbarrow. More than one thousand spectators cheered the party as they passed through the streets. This was the result of a promise made by Mrs. Chapman two years ago. She told Mrs. High that the next time Butler run he would be elected, and if he was she would wheel her in a wheelbarrow from her house up and around the town hall.

The Best.

There are other good cooking stoves and A. J. Egnaw & Co., keeps them in stock, but if there are two stoves in existence which lay just claims to superiority in many respects over all others they are the OMAHA AND HOT BLAST CHARTER. We have not the space here to point out their many merits but call at our establishment on Market street and we will take great pleasure in doing so, whether you wish to buy the stove or not. We consider it the best stove in the market. oct30d&w1m. A. J. Egnaw & Co.

DAILY EVENING BULLETIN.

WEDNESDAY EVE., NOV. 22, 1882.

ROSSER & McCARTHY,
PUBLISHERS AND PROPRIETORS.

TO-DAY the DAILY BULLETIN,
A chip of the old block,
Stands as firm as though it were,
Upon a solid rock.
And those who think it has'nt passed
The danger point of breakin',
And has'nt got its eye teeth cut
Are very much mistaken.

SKATES are being polished up.

REV. F. S. POLLITT will hold a Thanks-giving service on Lawrence Creek at 11 o'clock on Thanksgiving Day, and at Chester at night.

JAMES P. YOUNG, a rich bachelor of Mt. Sterling, was found dead in his bed on Monday morning. His death was caused by the use of chloroform.

THE bodies of Samuel Taylor, wife and daughter, who have been dead sixteen years, were recently exhumed for reinterment at Augusta and found to be perfectly preserved.

A MAN named W. H. Cunningham jumped down the stack of an iron furnace in full blast at Birmingham, Ala., on Saturday, and was instantly cremated. He was said to be from Kentucky.

JOHN HOLLAND, a boy fourteen years of age, was run over by the Washington Fire Company's hose carriage, Tuesday evening and severely hurt. Richard Rice, a member of the company was also run over but was only slightly injured.

THE congregations of the South Methodist Church, and the South Presbyterian Church will hold joint services in the Presbyterian Church next Sunday morning, and night services at the South Methodist Church. Preaching by Rev. M. D. Reynolds. All are cordially invited.

A DIFFICULTY occurred at Sharpsburg on Monday in which Wm. Price, Samuel Booth and Brack Crouch were involved. Booth was shot in the side and mortally wounded. Crouch was cut on the head and Price shot in the right arm. The trouble originated in a controversy about a glove.

THE attention of advertisers is called to the holiday edition of the DAILY BULLETIN. The paper will be enlarged and six thousand copies printed and circulated during the week preceeding Christmas. Our circulation is the largest and our rates the lowest, and the BULLETIN is printed every day.

THE entertainment given at the opera house last night by the Armstrong Minstrel troupe was unquestionably the best that has been witnessed in this city for years, and this is the verdict of all who were fortunate enough to be present. The excellent music was a most charming feature and the performance of Edward Mealey on two cornets at one time was both remarkable as a wonderful performance and enjoyable as music. The jokes were new and sparkling, while the negro characters were life like and thoroughly funny. The speech of "Senator Bell" on the leading topics of the day excelled anything in the line we have heard for many years. The Powers brothers' clog dancing on skates, Mat Green in his wonderful contortions the songs and jubilees of the mounmental quartette were very good also. As an entertainment in minutes it was certainly neat and refined and well worthy of praise and the patronage of the public.

The Daily Bulletin.

The enterprise of printing a daily paper in Maysville, begun a year ago to-day, we are pleased to say, has been a successful venture. Indeed the paper paid from the start, and has since been gathering strength at such a rate that it is now firmly established and may be looked upon as one of the permanent features of the city. For this success we acknowledge our deep obligations to the private and business community, who have so generously sustained us from the start. The favor with which the EVENING BULLETIN has been received is all the more gratifying when we remember that it is the only daily paper of the many started here in years past that has yielded a profit to the publishers. It is our desire, and we expect at an early day to do so, to print a larger paper, and, we hope, one of increased interest, at the present rate of subscription, but to do so we shall have to have the co-operation of our friends, which, we trust, will be extended as liberally in the future as in the past. In the meantime the BULLETIN will endeavor to merit the confidence and regard of its many patrons.

Holiday Edition.

During the week preceeding Christmas the DAILY BULLETIN will be enlarged to a five column paper and an edition of one thousand copies printed and circulated each day in this city, Chester, Aberdeen and in the other towns adjacent to Maysville. We shall thus be enabled to offer the business men of the city who wish to advertise their holiday goods, the best and at the same time the cheapest medium for doing so. Our patrons may rely upon having their favors printed in six thousand papers during the week, all of which will be circulated where they will be of the most benefit to advertisers. Call and ascertain our rates. Contracts should be made immediately as our space will be limited.

Chocolate Cream Drops.

Take two cups of pulverized or granulated sugar and half a cup of cream (milk will do, but cream is far better); mix well together and put on the stove to boil; this must actually boil for five minutes; then take from the stove and stir briskly till it is stiff; flavor with vanilla; then drop from a spoon or buttered plate. If you take a little pains these drops may easily be of respectable shape. In the meantime have a cake of chocolate broken in little pieces in a bowl; have some water boiling in the tea kettle, set the bowl over it; the chocolate will soon melt; then remove from the heat and with a fork roll the drops in the melted chocolate, and put back on the plate to harden.

Fire.

Last night between seven and eight o'clock the frame dwelling of Mr. James Threlkeld, on Bridge street near Third, caught fire from an accidental cause and was partly destroyed. The fire originated in the rear of the building and spread so rapidly it was checked with great difficulty by the fire department. The house was insured in the North America Insurance Company, John B. Poyntz, Jr., agent, for $1,200. The furniture was insured in the same agency for $300. Mr. Threlkeld's entire loss will be about $1,800. The residence of Mr. L. C. Ballenger adjoining was damaged by water to the amount of about $100.

HOOVER STIVERS, who killed Burt Scully at Paris, has been held to bail in the sum of $5,000.

COUNTY POINTS.

Thomas Kilgore and wife made a flying trip to Cincinnati last week.

J. A. Jackson after several days visit to Cincinnati, returned home last week and has not been able to be out of the house since. We are glad to state he is on the mend.

John T. Wilson had three of his deer to escape from his park, some days since and they have been captured lately.

Our little town was in a terrible uproar last Saturday night. The ball opened in what is known as the Hutch ranch, the colored population were the principal actors. No arrests as yet.

Born, to the wife of W. J. Jackson, of the Stonewall House, on the 13th inst a fine daughter, Mary Elizabeth.

R. R. Myall is on a trip out west prospecting. J. D. Reynolds, esq., and A. P. Goodling were in Cincinnati, last week, sounding the tobacco market.

A. G. Wilson and son, left this week on their regular circuit and will be absent several weeks.

W. J. Loos is off on a preaching tour looking for a new field to labor in.

While in Cincinnati, last week, we were very kindly invited by V. O. Plunkard, to the Ninth street Christian Church, to a dinner prepared by the sisters. The proceeds were for the benefit of the poor. Everything was abundant and of the best. We met many of our old friends among them Ex-Governor Bishop and wife. They have an elegant church which cost $125,000 the arrangement of which cannot be excelled.

The walnut lumber men from Ohio are doing a land office business here—buying and shipping a great many logs on Kentucky Central Railroad.

Sausage and spare ribs are now making their appearance on the table.

TWO LICK.

Miss Maggie Orme is visiting her sister, Mrs. George Case.

Mrs. Meadow and Miss Mattie Garrison, of Robertson county, was visiting here Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Tiller, the accomplished wife of Rev. T. E. Tiller, spent Sunday week among the people of Rev. T's charge. She made a host of friends during her stay.

Several of our citizens were summoned to Lexington this week on the trial of Jake Williams.

Rev. W. D. Powers preached at our school house last Saturday afternoon.

Rev. J. K. Pace preached several able discourses during his stay here.

The series of meetings at Two Lick church closed last Sunday night. The congregations were large and splendid order maintained. Great good will result, no doubt, from this meeting. There was one accession to the church.

HELENA STATION.

Frank Purcell is shipping to New York the finest lot of walnut lumber we have seen for some time.

R. M. Harrison is the happy recipient of a beet that weighs 12 pounds and six ounces, presented and grown by Wm Mitchell. Weigh your beets and report as his beet beats all the beets. Willie is the boss.

Miss Keys is teasing the young minds here that knowledge is power.

The State of Lewis at Large.

The colored population of Vanceburg have been holding an entertainment at the court house.

Saturday night Charley Wilson, mulatto, and John Polk, black, the former porter at St. Charles Hotel, the latter a deck-hand on the steamer Handy, renewed an old quarrel in front of the court house. Wilson shot at Polk, the missile struck the pavement and glanced up through the arm of a sixteen-year-old white boy named Caleb Sprague. Dr. Clarke dressed the wound. The shootist made his escape, he belongs in Cincinnati where he bears a hard name. This thing of negroes carrying concealed deadly weapons is a growing evil that should receive the strictest enforcement of the law.

Religious matters have an upward tendency over the state of Lewis.

Rev. H. C. Northcott is holding a protracted meeting with the eloquent Presiding Elder J. D. Walsh and Rev. John S. Cox assisting. Rev. Northcott is laying the foundation for a good and prosperous work here.

Elder J. B. Fitch is assisting Rev. Walker at Taylor's Chapel, Stout's Bottom, and they are now conducting a successful meeting.

The members of the M. E. Church, South, of Concord, had a festival on the 17th inst., that was well attended. The proceeds to pay the church debt.

The steamer Fashion is now running in the Vanceburg and Portsmouth trade daily.

Vanceburg presents a busy time, all the merchants offering full stocks.

Your correspondent has had ample facilities to see and know the box is not scarce or sticky, and that farmers have penned the usual number in their counties. So the corner in hog had better dissolve by mutual consent.

Hens and hen fruit are justly scarce and high. Extracted wet and cold seasons are fatal to fowls, domestic and game, chickens are not scarce but diseased.

Sales of Land.

The following changes in the ownership of land have been recorded at the office of the Clerk of the County Court, since our last report:

Fighting the Weak

Lord Granville's expression of regret in the House of Lords that England should be compelled to "use force against the weak," apropos of the bombardment of the Egyptian forts, is a curious illustration of the way in which a certain kind of cant survives for indefinite periods the facts to which it owed its origin. Reluctance to attack the weak was a product of medieval chivalry, and was cultivated in the days when fighting was considered a good thing in itself and valued much for its spectacular effects. It lingers still in the dueling and boxing rules, which place the combatants as far as possible on terms of strict equality, and it every now and then comes up in attempts to justify misdirection of political sympathy, as when during our Rebellion English Tories used to pretend that they sided with the South because it was the weaker party, and thought Captain Winslow acted unfairly because in the fight with the Alabama he protected his engines and boilers by hanging his chain cables over the side. But it has no place whatever in modern political ethics. Nations do not now fight for fun or to show how brave they are. They fight to have their way about something. So far, too, from regretting that an enemy is weak when they attack him, they openly rejoice in it. In fact, they try to weaken him, or wait till they think he is weak, before they attack him. Just as it is a fatal fault in a modern General not to be strongest at the point of collision with the enemy, it is a fatal fault in a modern statesman to go to war unless he has allies, or has some advantage over the enemy in numbers, or resources, or armament. Finally, it is nearly always the weak whom modern Powers go to war with. They seldom attack their match, and always do so with great reluctance. In fact, they consider it barbarous to do so. Their improved weapons are nearly always used against communities which do not possess them. All England's wars since 1815 have been against the very weak. She keeps Ireland because Ireland is weak, and holds India because the Hindoos are weak, and bullies Turkey because Turkey is weak. Weakness among nations has a touch of immorality about it, because national strength comes from national virtue. It is the product of industry, order, forethought, love of country, determination and persistence. It is these things which make nations able to thrash the weak; it is the absence of them which prepares the weak for the thrashing. The fittest survive, even more surely among nations than among individuals. —N. Y. Post.

Sympathetic and Combative.

"It is not often that one finds the sympathetic and combative elements of Irish character more finely blended than they are in the following story:

"Teddy Kelly was employed as a section hand on a railroad. In an unguarded moment he undertook to occupy the main track instead of allowing the priority to an express train that was overdue. After the train passed it was discovered that Teddy had been disfigured almost beyond recognition. His Emerald coadjutors gathered around the remains, bemoaned the untimely taking off of their comrade, and remarked what a pity it was that the poor fellow should have been so horribly mangled. After their flood of grief had spent its force it was suggested that one of their number be sent to break the sad news as tenderly as possible to Mrs. Kelly. Mr. Patrick Dolan was unanimously elected to perform this mournful service. He hurriedly betook himself to the Kelly mansion and knocked at the door with enough severity to suggest the hurling of a young thunder-bolt. In a few moments the woman of the house was in the presence of the visitor, and the following conversation occurred:

"Dolan—'Is the Widdy Kelly in?'
"Woman—'No; the Widdy Kelly does'nt live here, but I'm Mrs. Kelly.'
"Dolan—'You're a liar, for the corpse is just comin' around the corner!'"
